Road to Kihnu

The road to Kihnu goes largely along the international Eurovelo bike route, with a small exception. If you have time, we recommend that you turn left at Kabriste, to reach Pärnu Bay. There, the road takes you through several traditional fishing villages. The asphalt road ends in the village of Liu, where you should return to the Eurovelo route. When traveling from Pärnu, it is important to turn right before the bridge on Lihula Road, then bike under the bridge and turn left.

Road to Soomaa

Starting from Pärnu, you can bike along the pedestrian road up to the border of Tammiste. Then you will have to bike about five kilometers along the main highway and turn right on the first big crossroad towards the town of Sindi, and then immediately to the left. This will bring you to a peaceful road running along the Pärnu River. After passing 10 km, turn right at Oore tee to see beautiful views of the Pärnu River and reach the town of Tori faster. The final destination, the Riisa hiking trail, is located directly on the border of Soomaa. The entire road is asphalt.

Road to Latvia

Golfi tee, that departs Pärnu is not an asphalt road (it's a 2.4 km forest route) but it is manageable for anyone, and beats the alternative, a long ride alongside a highway. At the end of the Golfi tee, you should take a short ride to the Riga highway, where you have to go about 450 meters before turning right again. The speed limit for cars on this section is 70 kmh. The next road will take you directly to Uulu, where you will have to cross the Riga highway, then can continue along the small Häädemeeste highway. The road ends again on the Riga highway, where it is necessary to cross the road and then bike straight to the border.
